SUBJECT: Participation in and Support of the APEX Orientation Program for the Department's New Senior Executive Service (SES) Members

Twice annually, we conduct the APEX Orientation Program for the Department's new SES members. Much like CAPSTONE for new general and flag officers, APEX provides a valuable opportunity for senior military and civilian leaders to interact and discuss current issues of importance to the Department.

APEX involves activities in the Pentagon and Washington, DC area, combined with visits to organizations in the field. These activities increase participants' understanding of key Department policies, priorities, and initiatives. APEX also provides an opportunity for those in the field and in other agencies to interact with the Department's emerging leaders.

Many of you and your staff members already participate in and support APEX, and many of your senior executives have attended the program. Feedback uniformly highlights first-hand that personal interactions are one of the most valuable parts of the APEX experience. In that regard, I encourage your personal participation and support. This will ensure that APEX continues to provide our senior executives the framework and tools they need for success.
